CUYLER'S HOME RUN DOES TRICK

With Score 1 to 1 Cuyler Bounced Off a Home Run in Eighth Inning

Vic Aldridge Gives a Game Exhibition of Pitching

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Oct. 8.—"Kiki" Cuyler, Pittsburgh's dashing outfielder, broke up the second game of the 1925 world's series this afternoon and produced the long awaited Pirate punch at the critical moment.

With the score tied at 1 to 1 and Moore on first in the last half of the eighth inning, Cuyler straightened out one of Stan Coveleskie's spitters for a home run that bounded into the temporary stands in right field, Pittsburgh winning 3 to 2.

As "Kiki" face wreathed in smiles bounced around the bases the 40,000 fans went wild with joy. Previous to this there had been a homer by Joe Judge into the same stands that put Washington in the lead and another by Glenn Wright which fell into the new bleachers in left field.

Vic Aldridge, who worked in the box for the Pirates, gave one of the gamest exhibitions of pitching that has ever been seen in a world series. He filled the bases twice with none out and escaped by having only one run scored against him.

In the fifth inning he put the three first men on bases and was pulled out of a hole by the fast work of the Pittsburgh infield. Again in the ninth inning with one out he loaded the bases and worked himself out of the hole again by fanning Dutch Reuther, one of the hardest hitting pitchers in the game. Reuther was sent in as a pinch hitter for Coveleskie, the veteran spitball pitcher and Aldridge fooled him on a high, fast ball for the third strike.

Roger Peckinpah, the veteran Washington shortstop who was voted the most valuable player in the American league, broke out with two bad errors in the eighth inning, one of which put Eddie Moore on the bases with the run that eventually won the game. Cuyler came up after Max Carey had fanned out and bounced a home run into the right field stand that scored Moore ahead of him and won the ball game. The official attendance was 43,364. Receipts, $185,698.

The two teams leave tonight for Washington where they will resume the series tomorrow.

McKee, manager of the Pittsburgh club, probably will use Ray Kremer or Emil Yde in the box. Washington will work behind Alex Ferguson or Dutch Reuther.

The distribution of the receipts of today's game was as follows:
National advisory council, $27,754.70.

Players' share, $94,705.98.

Club's share, $63,137.32.

The lineup for today's game:
Washington—Rice, cf; S. Harris, 2b; Goslin, lf; Judge, 1b; J. Harris, rf; Bluege, 3b; Peck, ss; Ruel, c; Coveleskie, p.

Pittsburgh—Moore, 2b; Carey, cf; Cuyler, rf; Barnhart, lf; Traynor, 3b; Wright, ss; Grantham, 1b; Smith, c; Aldridge, p.

Umpires—McCormick at first, Moriarty at second, Rigger at third and Owen at the plate.

FIRST INNING

Washington—Rice out, Wright to Grantham on a close play. S. Harris attempted to bunt but fouled back of the plate. Harris fanned on a fast ball. Goslin fied to Carey. No runs, no hits, no errors.

The Pirate fans who had come out somewhat dubiously after yesterday's disappointing defeat burst into a roar of applause as Aldridge disposed of three Senators in short order.

Pittsburgh—Moore out, Peck to Judge on an easy chance. Carey out on strikes. Cuyler out, S. Harris to Judge on a slow bouncer. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Some Washington rooters in Clark Griffith's box had brought megaphones

TROUBLE WITH WOMEN IS TRYING TO IMITATE MEN

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 8.—(UP)—"The trouble with the women of the present day is that they are trying to imitate the men. Let's be real women. We do not want to rule the world, but we want to rule the men who rule the world."

This was the message of Mrs. Ida Clarke, magazine writer, in an address here last night before the annual convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs.

"Women have been ignored in America. We have great women now. We have had them for many years, but they find no place in our hall of fame," Mrs. Clarke said. "The United States senate, the old man's home, would be a much more efficient organization if we had more women of the caliber of Carrie Chapman Catt as members."

PEACE OF EUROPE DISCUSSED AT THE ROUND TABLE

STRESEMAN CLOSETED FOR TWO HOURS WITH CHAMBERLAIN

LUTHER OF GERMANY AND BRIAND OF FRANCE ALSO CONFERRED

By HENRY WOOD

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Lucarno, Switzerland, Oct. 8.—Private conversations have succeeded round table discussions in the effort to secure the peace of Europe.

Foreign Minister Streseman of Germany today visited Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign minister, and for two hours they held their first conference since arriving here.

This meeting, together with that of Chancellor Luther of Germany and Foreign Minister Briand of France, last evening, is expected to go far in materializing the aims of the delegates.

With the arrival today of Foreign Minister Skrzynski of Poland, the conference personnel is completed. Foreign Minister Benes of Czechoslovakia arrived yesterday.

The coming of these two men was not expected until the first of the week and it is believed that their early arrival means the negotiations have progressed more quickly than had been anticipated.

With them and noisily voiced their approval of Coveleskie's work. The "old fox" didn't display much emotion.

SECOND INNING

Washington—Judge hit a home run into the right field stands. Cuyler went clear back against the temporary stands but the ball was yards over his head. J. Harris singled past Wright. Harris died stealing. Smith to Moore. Bluege fied to Barnhart who made an easy catch. Peck out, Traynor to Grantham. Grantham making a spectacular stop of a bad throw. One run, two hits, no errors.

The face of genial Barney Dreyfus, owner of the Pirates, grew long when Judge hit his homer and J. Harris singled but he broke into an expansive smile when the latter was cut down stealing.

Pittsburgh—Barnhart fied to Rice in short center. Traynor out, Bluege to Judge. Bluege making a nice stop of a hard chance. Wright singled over Judge's head. Grantham up. Ruel let the pitch pass him. It was a passed ball. Grantham out, S. Harris to Judge. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Coveleskie's spitball was working so well Muddy Ruel could hardly hold it. It grew dark during the Pirate rally and considerably colder.

THIRD INNING

Washington—Ruel was called out on strikes and protested bitterly. Coveleskie out on strikes. Rice singled over Aldridge's head. Rice went to second on a balk by Aldridge. S. Harris out, Wright to Grantham. No runs, one hit, no errors.

"Babe" Ruth, somewhat too large for his narrow seat in the press box behind the plate, followed the play with keen eyes and made notes.

Pittsburgh—Smith singled past Peck on a hard drive. Aldridge up. Aldridge forced Smith at second, Coveleskie to S. Harris. Harris dropped the ball and missed a double play. Moore fanned on a wide curve. Carey singled past Judge. Aldridge stopping at second. Cuyler forced Carey at second. (Continued on Page 8)

LEGION IS AT PEACE OVER THE MITCHELL ISSUE

SUPPORTERS AND OPPONENTS OF COLONEL PATCH UP A TRUCE

LEGION IMPRESSED WITH MITCHELL'S REORGANIZATION PROGRAM

By RICHARD C. WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Omaha Neb., Oct. 8.—The American Legion national convention is at peace over the Mitchell issue, it was apparent today. Supporters and opponents of Colonel William Mitchell patched up a truce compromising on demands that the Mitchell air policy be endorsed.

The American Legion is "profoundly impressed with Colonel Mitchell's proposal to reorganize the nation's defense under one cabinet officer," but the delegates were not asked to approve the program by their aeronautical committee.

The committee presented a resolution to the convention today in which all reference to Mitchell had been deleted.

The resolution recommended, however, that the Legion repeat its previous request for a complete study of national defense "to guarantee to the nation the most efficient, economical defense organization."

Personal reference to Colonel William Mitchell and endorsement of his name was withdrawn by southern delegates.

The resolution as presented to the convention was drafted by Reed Landis of Chicago, son of Judge Landis, baseball czar, and a supporter of Mitchell.

The veterans last night watched the brilliant Ak Sar Ben electrical parade. This parade, an annual affair here, was composed of 15 brilliantly illuminated floats depicting "the American Legion in war and in peace." It is estimated 250,000 persons witnessed the spectacle.

Today's sessions of the convention will be taken up with reports of committees, greetings from other war organizations, and the awarding of trophies. The convention will close Friday with the election of officers.

South Dakota won the D'Olier trophy for having the highest per cent of eligible membership. A resolution will be presented asking that the American Legion Weekly, official publication of the organization, be changed to a monthly in the interest of economy.

A hands off policy in regard to United States entrance into the League of Nations was voted. However, the convention voted favorably on a proposal for the United States to send an official observer to all League sessions.

Boom Pershing For Legion Head
General John J. Pershing was boomed for national commander of the American Legion today by the Missouri delegation to the national Legion convention in session here.

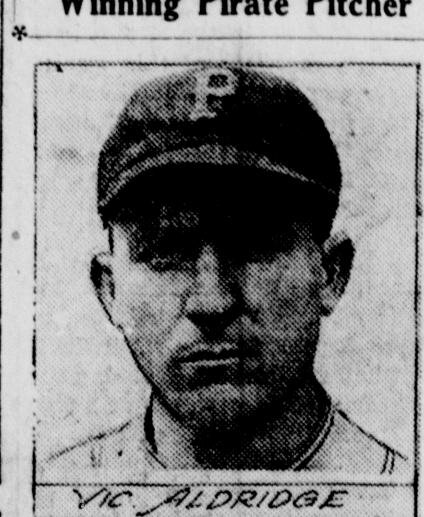

The Missourians cabled Pershing, who is in South America, asking him to accept.

The boom for the former commander of the American expeditionary forces in the world war, was greeted warmly by other delegations. Election of a national commander takes place tomorrow.

PERMITS GRANTED TO OPERATE 53 BUSES IN STATE

COVERING TERRITORY AS FAR NORTH AS PORT ARTHUR

GRANTED TO THE NORTHLAND TRANSPORTATION COMPANY

St. Paul, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Permit for the operation of 53 buses covering territory from the Twin Cities as far north as Port Arthur, Canada, was granted the Northland Transportation Company today by the state railroad and warehouse commission.

The Northland Transportation Company, a subsidiary of the Great Northern railroad, gained the permit for the operation of the largest single fleet of buses after hearings continuing since May. Simultaneously the Range Rapid Transit Company, since absorbed by the Northland Company, sought permit for operation in parts of the same territory.

The bus fleet will operate between St. Paul and Duluth; St. Paul and Taylor Falls; Duluth and Virginia; Duluth and Brainerd; Duluth and Port Arthur, Canada; and Virginia and Ely.

Opposition of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railway company to the granting of a permit for the operation of lines from Virginia to International Falls and from Duluth to Biwabik resulted in the withdrawal of these applications.

Morgan was named by Roy Freden, recently arrested in the Twin Cities as his accomplice.

Fredden was on his way to the state penitentiary today after having been sentenced to 3 to 5 years after pleading guilty to burglary.

VOLSTEAD SOON TO BE LEGAL HEAD DRY ENFORCEMENT

WILL ACT FOR NORTHWESTERN ENFORCEMENT AREA

APPOINTED BY GEN. RHINOW, NEW ADMINISTRATOR

Granite Falls, Minn., Oct. 8.—(UP)—Andrew J. Volstead, author of the national prohibition law, will assume the duties of legal adviser for the northwest enforcement area next week, he said today.

Volstead was appointed late yesterday to head the legal staff of the newly reorganized prohibition force, General W. F. Rhinow is the new administrator for the district.

In accepting the appointment to assist in administration of the law he sponsored, Volstead reiterated his faith in the merit of the dry act.

"I have perfect faith in it and its righteousness as a law. I have never doubted its merit," he said. "I am taking this position because I want to see the law enforced and help in its enforcement."

Volstead declined to criticize present enforcement or to predict more efficient administration under the reorganized department beyond saying he would "see what can be done" when he gets to work.

MERRICK NAMED AID OF YELLOWLEY

Washington, Oct. 8.—R. Q. Merrick, until today prohibition administrator for District No. 3, with headquarters at Buffalo, has been appointed assistant to E. C. Yellowley, administrator of the Chicago district. Eugene C. Roberts of Buffalo has taken Merrick's place in that district.

REDUCTION OF AGENTS IN PROHIBITION SERVICE

Washington, Oct. 8.—The first general reduction in the personnel of the prohibition unit since Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews took charge of dry enforcement work will take place October 15. Approximately 25 per cent of the 2,500 agents and several hundred clerks on the prohibition bureau rolls will be dropped from the service.

MONTE WINS ON TO NEW YORK RACE

Mitchell Field, N. Y., Oct. 8.—(UP)—The on to New York race, open only to civilian pilots flying in the national air races here, was won by Kenneth W. Monte, Santa Monica, Calif., officials of the air field announced today.

It was necessary to qualify for the race to fly more than 100 miles in reaching Mitchell field.

The international air races will start here today with 86 planes entered in all events, ranging from heavy bombers to the fastest speed planes in the world. The races will conclude Saturday with the speed contest for the Pulitzer trophy.

FIRE SETS IN IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING THE EXPLOSION

FIREMEN FIGHT ODDS, TEN PEOPLE ARE CARRIED OUT

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 8.—(UP)—An explosion wrecked the downtown office of the Laclede Gas Light Co. in the heart of the business district this afternoon.

Early reports did not indicate whether anyone was killed. Many were employed in the building.

A fire set in immediately following the explosion and hindered the work of firemen who were entering the building attempting to rescue persons said to have been trapped on the second and third floors.

Within thirty minutes ten persons had been carried from the building. It was unknown whether they were dead.

Shortly before 3 P. M. a report from the building said one body had been found.

Many persons were removed from the offices and rushed to hospitals. Their condition so far is unknown.

Engineers about the building said that the blast had been caused by an ammonia tank in the rear of the first floor.

WOMAN FOUND STABBED TO DEATH

Waukegan, Ill., Oct. 8.—(UP)—A complication of facts and clues surrounding the murder of Mrs. Minnie Mellinger 24, baffled police here today. The woman's body covered with stab wounds was found in a rooming house early this morning.

James McGuire was arrested, when the keeper of the rooming house said he had entertained the woman last evening.

SHERIFF EXONERATED OF CHARGES THAT HE GAVE PRIVILEGES

Chicago, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Sheriff Edwin Ahlstrom of Waukegan, Ill., today was exonerated by Judge Adam C. Cliffe in federal court of charges that he had granted undue liberties to Johnny Torrio, notorious Chicago beer runner.

Complaints had come that Ahlstrom had taken Torrio on several trips out of Lake county to which Torrio had been sentenced by the federal court for prohibition violation.

Torrio by the court's order was then released from custody having finished his sentence.

ARTHUR HOLT IS INDICTED ON MURDER CHARGE

Waukegan, Ill., Oct. 8.—(UP)—Arthur Holt was indicted for murder by the Lake county grand jury today. He was named for shooting his wife Mrs. Lily Holt in her Fox Lake home.

Albert Harco, son-in-law of Mrs. Holt and Mrs. Clara Harco, daughter of the dead woman, also were indicted for murder. They were named as accessories.

HE REFUSES TO TESTIFY ON THE ADVICE OF LAWYER

IS THEN SERVED WITH SUBPOENA AND DISREGARDS THE SUMMONS

SAYS HE IS NOW UNDER SUMMONS OF A COURT MARTIAL

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 8.—Colonel William Mitchell, who precipitated the national air defense controversy, defied the naval board of inquiry investigating the Shenandoah disaster when it called him before it today to testify concerning his statement that the collapse of the dirigible should have been avoided.

Mitchell on advice of his special counsel, Representative Frank Reid of Illinois, republican, bluntly refused to answer any questions of Admiral Hilary P. Jones, head of the board, and the board immediately went into executive session to determine their next action.

In the executive session the board decided to summon the judges advocate general of the army and of the navy to advise with them on the legality of any punitive steps they might take against Mitchell.

Mitchell Disregards Subpoena
Washington, Oct. 8.—Colonel William Mitchell, storm center of aviation, walked out of the naval board investigating the Shenandoah disaster when it served him with a formal subpoena to testify today.

Mitchell, on advice of counsel, Representative Frank Reid, republican, of Illinois, openly defied the committee refused to recognize the subpoena issued and left the navy building where the hearing was being held.

Mitchell, who was called because of his statements that collapse of the Shenandoah could have been avoided, took the position that the naval board had no right to question him while court martial proceedings were pending in the war department and that any testimony by him might jeopardize his legal rights.

When the court opened here Mitchell was the first witness called, but Reid immediately interposed objection and curtly told the court Mitchell would not submit to questions.

Reid contended Mitchell had not been legally subpoenaed and after a sarcastic colloquy with Hilary P. Jones, chairman of the board, Mitchell and his counsel withdrew.

Jones called the court into executive session, ordered the judges advocate general of the war and of the navy departments to appear and inform the court as to the legal right to require Mitchell to testify. Thereupon a subpoena was issued and served upon Mitchell in an adjoining room.

In Conference With His Lawyer
Mitchell and Reid went into conference for 10 minutes and then Reid walked up to Captain Paul Foley, judge advocate of the board, and said:

"You can give the court the compliments of my client and myself and say that we refused to recognize the subpoena."

Mitchell and Reid then left the building.

Mitchell stated his position in a letter to the adjutant general of the war department today, requesting that his testimony before the naval court be postponed until after the war department court martial on insubordination charges.

"I have been advised by counsel," Mitchell wrote, "that it would be inconsistent with my legal rights and might jeopardize my case should I be required to testify."

After the Mitchell incident the court adjourned until tomorrow morning when it is understood Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, widow of the late commander of the Shenandoah, may be called to testify.

FIRE PREVENTION ON THE FARM

"The Farmer" Magazine of St. Paul Gives Some Timely Advice

HEAVY FIRE LOSS QUOTED

Fire in a Small Town or Isolated Farm is Generally Helpless Situation

The fact that this is Fire Prevention Week makes this article which we have clipped from this week's issue of The Farmer of St. Paul particularly timely:

The idea of devoting some definite week for the promotion of some cause or other has lost some of its effectiveness by being overdone. This is not true, however, if one carefully considers the purpose to be accomplished. The week of October 4 to 10, "Fire Prevention Week," is worthy of every attention that can be directed to the subject of preventing fire, not only for that week but for the other 51 weeks of the year.

It is said that the money loss in 1923 would build a road over 1,000 miles long with a row of houses on each side and a wreath on every door-knob in memory of someone whose life had been sacrificed to fire. This enormous loss of life and property should cause us all to do what we can to help in reducing this needless waste, which in dollars alone amounts to $548,000,000.

If one has never seen a fire in a small town or on an isolated farm where no fire protection is available, the helplessness of the situation can hardly be realized. After fire has once started, about all there is left to do is to watch it burn.

During Fire Prevention Week many agencies, such as the radio and newspapers, will point out how many of the fires are started. Carelessness is probably the cause of more fires that can be classed as entirely needless than any other one thing. Combined with combustible material in building and with the acreages of timber land in our northern states, it is responsible for a large amount of fire loss. On our farms where very little protection is to be had and where a fire nearly always causes complete destruction, it is well to do some serious thinking before it is too late.

It is not possible, of course, to have ideal conditions for the control of fire on every farm. It is possible, however, to improve conditions so that the fire hazard will be reduced. This means that houses and out-buildings should be built as much as possible of fire resistant material, that they should be protected from lightning, that defective chimneys and flues be fixed, and that gasoline and matches be handled with due respect.

Every home can do much in the way of cleaning up the premises which will not only reduce the fire hazard, but will also add to the general appearance of the farmstead. It would be well to devote some time next Friday afternoon to interest the school children in the matter of fire prevention so that they may return to their homes with a feeling of greater responsibility of their share in reducing the danger of fire.

GARFIELD PARENT-TEACHERS

Comprehensive Program to be Given at School on Friday Evening

The parent-teachers association of the Garfield school will meet on Friday evening, October 9th, at 8 o'clock. The following program will be rendered:

Violin duet—Leonard and Gladys Johnson.

Dialogue—"A Hundred Years From Now."

Song—Group of girls.

Recitation—Joseph Swindells.

Cornet, violin and piano trio—Mesdames Fox, Johnson and Niles.

Negro dialogue—By two boys.

Violin duet—Mrs. L. Johnson and Leonard Johnson.

Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting. All parents and friends interested in the Garfield school are urged to be present.

W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. Kelly Davis, 123 Main street Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This is a special meeting, therefore all members are urged to be present. Visitors are welcome.

Women's Catholic Order of Foresters

The St. Francis Court No. 393, Women's Catholic Order of Foresters will hold its regular meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the K. C. hall. Deputy Organizer Fleming will be present. All members are asked to attend.

A Recent Fire on the Cheney Estate, Swift County, Minnesota

Disastrous Farm Fire

Here are the remains of a large frame barn. No livestock perished, but 35 tons of tame hay, harness valued at several hundred dollars, milking machine and gas engine to operate it, also cow stanchions and water system were a total loss. The concrete silo, located about three feet from the barn, was damaged very little. The doors were of wood and will have to be replaced. The origin of the fire is unknown. It started in the haymow, the flames coming through the roof when first discovered.

U. C. T. DANCE ON OCTOBER 9

Public Cordially Invited to Attend, Door Rights Are Reserved

HILARY'S ORCHESTRA PLAYS

Many Coming From Wadena, Staples, Motley, Pequot, Pine River, Crosby, to Attend Dance

The committee in charge of the U. C. T. dance at Gardner's hall on Friday, Oct. 9th, is making preparations for a large crowd. Salesmen report that parties are coming to the dance from Wadena, Staples, Motley, Pequot, Pine River, Crosby-Ironton, Aitkin, and other towns in this vicinity, attracted by the chance to dance to the music furnished by Hilary's orchestra of Minneapolis.

Hilary's orchestra made a big hit in Brainerd at their appearance at the last U. C. T. dance, and Mr. Hilary has sent word that all the latest hits will be played, and catchy songs sung by their two singers.

This dance is not an invitation dance, and everyone is welcome. Door rights are reserved by the committee, who will be in attendance in the ball room. Gardner's hall can accommodate about 300 couples, and from advance indications, the hall will be taxed to capacity.

On Thursday evening the floor will be planed down and waxed, so that it may be in excellent shape for the dance. Extra check rooms are being installed, to furnish full protection for all wraps.

This is one of a number of brilliant dancing parties being arranged for the winter, and those attending are assured the best music attainable, as well as a well conducted, orderly affair.

Insurance executive says Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is "Conqueror of Constipation"

Former addict to pills and drugs says ALL-BRAN restored youthful vim.

Here is a most remarkable tribute to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN:

For more than one-third of a century, I was an addict to all kinds of pills, drugs and nostrums to alleviate the tortures resulting from constipation. They brought only temporary relief. Then I tried Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and as a result I have a new birth of freedom from the terrible foe of the race. I am again in the pink of condition, the personification even of youthful vigor in my advancing years. Truly, Mr. W. K. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the conqueror of constipation.

Gratefully yours,
(Signed) A. M. SWENEY,
The Federal Reserve Life Insurance Co.

Let Kellogg's ALL-BRAN conquer constipation forever for you. Doctors recommend it. It is what they call a bulk food, that sweeps the intestine clean, stimulating digestion and normal, healthy action. Something habit-forming pills and drugs can never do.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, relief is guaranteed or your grocer returns the purchase price. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made in Battle Creek, Mich. Served in leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

FARBMAN IS NOTED VIOLINIST

To be Presented to Brainerd Music Lovers Sunday by Local Musical Club

PLAYS AT PARK THEATRE

Selections Vary From Chopin to Schubert, Run the Gamut of Emotions

The program of selections chosen by Harry Farbman, violinist, who plays to Brainerd music lovers under the auspices of the Brainerd Musical club is one of unusual interest. He comes so well recommended that his playing is awaited with eagerness.

His selections vary from Chopin to Schubert, to Popper and Wieniawski, and all these should run the gamut of emotions. He introduces into this part of the country the Russian Carnival, which has not been played here up to this time. With his reported excellence in the mechanical side of the playing, and in the ability to put soul into his selections, the program should be one of real worth.

While he has played abroad to appreciative audiences and won a decided place for himself there and in the East, he is new to the West, where it is expected that he will continue to win laurels for himself even greater than those that already crown his youthful brow.

The performance comes Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock—a pleasant ending to a day spent in the pursuit of other pleasures. There are only three concerts open to the general public; and local people are urged to watch the Dispatch for announcement of their appearances.

NIGHT CLASSES IN CITIZENSHIP

By authorization of the board of education of the city of Brainerd, the night classes for instruction in American citizenship and instruction in reading, spelling and arithmetic, will open at the Brainerd high school on Tuesday and Thursday of each week, commencing with Tuesday Oct. 13 and continuing each week thereafter until about May 1, 1926.

The classes will be in charge of Miss Hjerpe and Miss Vanasek under the supervision of Prof. W. C. Cobb. These teachers are particularly qualified to teach the branches of education above mentioned, and painstaking in imparting instruction. It is greatly desired that all those wishing to join the classes, will register on the opening night, October 13. By doing so they will receive the full course of instruction, and it will also very much lessen the labors of the teachers if all who desire instruction will enter the classes at the same time.

PUBLIC INDIFFERENCE

THERE is no more striking example of public indifference to sorely needed law revision than the majority of the country's building codes.

The inconsistency and obsolescence of these would be humorous if the result were not serious.

The buildings consumed by fire last year would line both sides of a street more than a thousand miles long. The cost of last year's fires in this country was more than $548,000,000. And every man, woman and child in this country is contributing to this total for the meager and unsatisfactory "protection" that it affords.

In addition to the cold dollars represented by the millions paid out in insurance, we have the added millions of loss not covered by insurance, so it is safe to say fire in this country is costing us more than a billion dollars a year.

Much of this sheer waste could have been prevented if our building codes were up to date. There are codes that compel fireproof construction for places of detention, yet permit fireproof school houses, theatres, hotels and other structures housing large numbers of people and who can say that fireproof homes are not just as necessary as fireproof schools?

Such construction is not only necessary for the safety of the individual, but for the safety of the community. And in this case, the community is the nation.

VIOLIN MUSIC

To many people, nothing so stirs the souls as the liquid music that flows from the strings of a violin when a master hand draws the bow across them. Others may prefer the piano, or feel their pulses leap when the woodwinds sound forth their music; but nothing quite equals the sweetness of a violin. It has almost human capacity for suffering and joy—one might easily forget that it is only an inanimate piece of wood that so vibrates with feeling, and that moves its listeners with many emotions.

For several years the Brainerd Musical club has had vocal and piano and cello music. This year it brings the violin to the Park theatre on Sunday, October the eleventh, in the person of Harry Farbman, who has, for all his youth, made a great name for himself both in America and abroad. Reports from his concerts pay tribute to his ability along several lines. From the purely mechanical side he merits all due praise for technique in handling the strings and for his bowing. In addition, and what is of far more importance, he has the true artist soul that puts life and feeling and power into his music. Already his reputation is great in musical circles—all predict a great future for him.

The executive board of the musical club feel themselves fortunate in securing his gifts for the coming Sunday. Whether the weather be fair or inclement, local music lovers should reserve the later hours of the afternoon for his concert.

MOTHER NATURE HAS SOMETHING TO SAY TOO

MOTHER NATURE has something to say regarding marketing conditions. We remember the arguments advanced and the movement set in motion to raise less wheat and thus boost the price. Next season, through a series of remarkable occurrences nobody figured on, conditions in America, Canada and Europe were such that wheat went to a higher price than anticipated regardless of the "raise less wheat" propaganda.

Last year we knew of potatoes selling at 25 cents a bushel. Farmers in some instances were so disgusted with the prices that they resolved to raise little or no potatoes this year. In fact, there was an organized movement to restrict the raising of the crop and pains were taken to find out just what acreage would be devoted to the crop.

We have no fault to find with organizations which sometimes seek to restrict the output of farm products, but many of the calculations of men are upset by Mother Nature who is the unknown quantity and like the female of the species she has her own line of thought and doesn't care if she reverses her opinions.

Well, last year the farmers who got 25 cents a bushel for their potatoes, let down on planting the potato field. Today potatoes are quoted at 75 cents a bushel in large lots.

FARMERS, BUY YOUR PYROTOL NOW

THIS is a good time of the year to think of doing stump-blowing. With threshing and fall work out of the way, and with fall rains putting the ground into good condition, stumps blow easily with a minimum explosive. Farmers who have land to clear should as rapidly as possible avail themselves of the low-priced government explosive now available.

At the most, this government explosive will probably last but a year or two when farmers will have to go back to earlier methods of land clearing or use higher-priced explosive. The government pyrotol now available will keep indefinitely, will not freeze nor cause headaches, comes put up in sticks like dynamite, 300 sticks to a hundred pounds. There is a supply now available in storage in the county and which can be secured by writing the County Agent at Brainerd.

PEOPLE are getting tired these days of publicity seeking men dubbing themselves as hikers after world records. One of these self-styled hikers who was "covering the globe" and seeking newspaper mention left Little Falls the other week and accepted the first ride proffered him by a motorist. He lost no time piling his dog, his baggage and his literature and himself inside the automobile and gratefully accepted the lift.

REV. MORRIS L. EVERS, new pastor of the Brainerd First Methodist church, is a lecturer of rare ability. Press notices accord his lectures on "Gustavus Adolphus," "Louise of Prussia," "The Thrice Married Queen" and "Modern Philanthropy" the highest praise.

PRESIDENTIAL PARTY MAKES EARLY MORNING TOUR OF THE CITY

By WILLIAM J. LOSH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 7.—President and Mrs. Coolidge early today paid St. Louis a surprise visit, making a short motor tour of the city before most of the inhabitants were out of bed.

Arriving here at 6:30 A. M. from Omaha, where yesterday the president addressed the American Legion the presidential party entered automobiles and enjoyed a drive in the crisp morning air through almost deserted streets. After about 45 minutes, the party returned to the train for the departure for Washington at 8 A. M.

There was no advance publicity about the trip and few St. Louisans knew that Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were in the city.

They were accompanied on the drive by all the White House party on board the presidential special, including Brigadier General Frank I. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau, aides, secret service operatives and newspaper men.

COLONEL MITCHELL DEFIES THE NAVAL
BOARD OF INQUIRY

ing advised of Mitchell's defiance of the naval board, said they were powerless to take punitive action because of a lack of jurisdiction. Mitchell complied with their orders by reporting to the war department when summoned.

Navy authorities said they regarded the incident as practically closed if the war department took no action.

IF YOU COULD SEE THE HEAT IN COAL

You would realize at once that a load of STANDARD COAL contains a full measure of heat and a load of ordinary unprepared coal only a short measure of heat.

The difference in heat value is due to the low ash content of STANDARD COAL and to the careful, systematic way in which STANDARD COAL is mined and cleaned, so that no visible, non-combustible impurities and wastes are shipped.

Freight charges are the same on STANDARD COAL as on the ordinary, unprepared, dirty coal. Delivered heat value alone counts. For a full measure of heat, use STANDARD COAL.

Hudson prices are lowest because the world's largest production of Sixes—Hudson and Essex—has made possible economical methods of manufacture. Through increase of quality, greater sales result, and volume economies that permit lower prices. There you have the reason for Hudson's leadership in value, in price, in sales.

PUBLIC INDIFFERENCE

THERE is no more striking example of public indifference to sorely needed law revision than the majority of the country's building codes.

The inconsistency and obsolescence of these would be humorous if the result were not serious.

The buildings consumed by fire last year would line both sides of a street more than a thousand miles long. The cost of last year's fires in this country was more than $548,000,000. And every man, woman and child in this country is contributing to this total for the meager and unsatisfactory "protection" that it affords.

In addition to the cold dollars represented by the millions paid out in insurance, we have the added millions of loss not covered by insurance, so it is safe to say fire in this country is costing us more than a billion dollars a year.

Much of this sheer waste could have been prevented if our building codes were up to date. There are codes that compel fireproof construction for places of detention, yet permit firetrap school houses, theatres, hotels and other structures housing large numbers of people and who can say that fireproof homes are not just as necessary as fireproof schools?

Such construction is not only necessary for the safety of the individual, but for the safety of the community. And in this case, the community is the nation.

VIOLIN MUSIC

To many people, nothing so stirs the souls as the liquid music that flows from the strings of a violin when a master hand draws the bow across them. Others may prefer the piano, or feel their pulses leap when the woodwinds sound forth their music; but nothing quite equals the sweetness of a violin. It has almost human capacity for suffering and joy—one might easily forget that it is only an inanimate piece of wood that so vibrates with feeling, and that moves its listeners with many emotions.

For several years the Brainerd Musical club has had vocal and piano and cello music. This year it brings the violin to the Park theatre on Sunday, October the eleventh, in the person of Harry Farbman, who has, for all his youth, made a great name for himself both in America and abroad. Reports from his concerts pay tribute to his ability along several lines. From the purely mechanical side he merits all due praise for technique in handling the strings and for his bowing. In addition, and what is of far more importance, he has the true artist soul that puts life and feeling and power into his music. Already his reputation is great in musical circles—all predict a great future for him.

The executive board of the musical club feel themselves fortunate in securing his gifts for the coming Sunday. Whether the weather be fair or inclement, local music lovers should reserve the later hours of the afternoon for his concert.

MOTHER NATURE HAS SOMETHING TO SAY TOO

MOTHER NATURE has something to say regarding marketing conditions. We remember the arguments advanced and the movement set in motion to raise less wheat and thus boost the price. Next season, through a series of remarkable occurrences nobody figured on, conditions in America, Canada and Europe were such that wheat went to a higher price than anticipated regardless of the "raise less wheat" propaganda.

Last year we knew of potatoes selling at 25 cents a bushel. Farmers in some instances were so disgusted with the prices that they resolved to raise little or no potatoes this year. In fact, there was an organized movement to restrict the raising of the crop and pains were taken to find out just what acreage would be devoted to the crop.

We have no fault to find with organizations which sometimes seek to restrict the output of farm products, but many of the calculations of men are upset by Mother Nature who is the unknown quantity and like the female of the species she has her own line of thought and doesn't care if she reverses her opinions.

Well, last year the farmers who got 25 cents a bushel for their potatoes, let down on planting the potato field. Today potatoes are quoted at 75 cents a bushel in large lots.

FARMERS, BUY YOUR PYROTOL NOW

THIS is a good time of the year to think of doing stump-blowing. With threshing and fall work out of the way, and with fall rains putting the ground into good condition, stumps blow easily with a minimum explosive. Farmers who have land to clear should as rapidly as possible avail themselves of the low-priced government explosive now available.

At the most, this government explosive will probably last but a year or two when farmers will have to go back to earlier methods of land clearing or use higher-priced explosive. The government pyrotol now available will keep indefinitely, will not freeze nor cause headaches, comes put up in sticks like dynamite, 200 sticks to a hundred pounds. There is a supply now available in storage in the county and which can be secured by writing the County Agent at Brainerd.

PEOPLE are getting tired these days of publicity seeking men dubbing themselves as hikers after world records. One of these self-styled hikers who was "covering the globe" and seeking newspaper mention left Little Falls the other week and accepted the first ride proffered him by a motorist. He lost no time piling his dog, his baggage and his literature and himself inside the automobile and gratefully accepted the lift.

REV. MORRIS L. EVERSZ, new pastor of the Brainerd First Methodist church, is a lecturer of rare ability. Press notices accord his lectures on "Gustavus Adolphus," "Louise of Prussia," "The Thrice Married Queen" and "Modern Philanthropy" the highest praise.

SCHOOL AT NEW PARK

Pupils Are Winnipeg Kiddies Who Appear in Show Tonight

School will keep on the New Park theatre stage today.

For the first time in all of its existence, perhaps, it will be transformed into a class-room.

The pupils will be the Winnipeg Kiddies, talented juvenile performers who will be seen in the same theatre tonight in their new 1925 revue of fun, song and dance.

Despite the fact that they are touring the country, these young performers go to school the same as other children.

Theirs, of course, is a traveling school—the stage of the theatre in whatever city they happen to be playing.

A school teacher of many years' experience accompanies the troupe on its tour.

Promptly at 11 a. m. each day, the little actors assemble on the stage and the teacher instructs them in writing, reading, arithmetic and other studies and hears their lessons.

A managerial decree compels each member of the organization to devote at least one hour a day to studying.

In addition to attending school, the kiddies give eight performances a week, take physical exercise and indulge in various recreations. They also are compelled to obtain a minimum of eight hours of sleep daily. So that, as may be surmised, they have no idle time to get into mischief.

Besides the teacher, there is a trained nurse and personal escort to help care for the youngsters. The entire group constitutes a big happy family.

"BIG SIX" GAME OF LIFE IS CALLED TODAY

CHRISTY MATHEWSON IDOL OF BASEBALL FANS, PASSED AWAY

LOSES HIS SEVEN YEAR FIGHT AGAINST THE WHITE
PLAGUE

DEATH OF THE "BIG SIX" WAS UNEXPECTED, HAD BEEN
ILL ALL SUMMER

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Oct. 8. — (UP)—Christy Mathewson, idol of baseball fans the world over has lost his seven year fight against the white plague.

He died at 11 o'clock last night at his home here just a few hours after the world series had opened in Pittsburgh.

Death of the Big Six was unexpected, although he had been in poor health all summer. Tubercular pneumonia brought on the end.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning in Lewiston, Pa., according to tentative plans. The body will be taken from here tonight.

Mathewson's gallant battle with tuberculosis had held public sympathy ever since he contracted the malady while serving as a captain in the army gas service during the world war. The disease developed slowly, and it was not until 1920 that he was forced to retire as coach of the New York Giants the club with which he won fame as a pitcher.

For three years he remained secluded at this resort and it was believed he had recovered his health. He returned to baseball as president and part owner of the Boston Braves in 1923.

On the training trip south last spring Mathewson suffered a cold, forcing his return here. Throughout the summer rumors reached his friends that he would be able to combat his disease for only a few months longer, but these were denied by his family and physicians.

Mrs. Mathewson was the only person at the bedside when he died. A son, Christopher, Jr., was away at college.

Mathewson's 45 years were devoted to sport. As a youngster at Factoryville, Pa., where he was born August 12, 1880, he was a leader on diamond and gridiron. When the scene shifted to Keystone Academy and Bucknell University he continued to star as a baseball and football player. In 1900 the big pitcher joined the Giants, but was farmed to the Virginia league for experience. At the end of the season he was drafted by the Cincinnati Reds and later went back to the Giants in a trade for the veteran Amos Rusie.

His first year as a major league hurler found him winning 20 games and losing 16. His successes continued with each passing season. Only twice in 15 years did he fail to win at least half his games.

The banner years of his career were 1908 when he won 37 games and lost 11 for a percentage of .771, and 1909 when he won 25 and lost 6 for a percentage of .806.

The "Big Six" won 30 games in three successive seasons, 1903-1905, an astounding record. He pitched two no-hit games and is believed to have made a world's record when in a game with Philadelphia he pitched only 67 balls, less than eight balls an inning.

Control was the secret of Mathewson's mound success. In the 692 games he pitched in the National league, he yielded only a trifle more than an average of one base on balls a game.

He appeared in four world's series, winning five games, losing the same number and tying one. His most sensational post season work was done in the New York-Philadelphia series in 1904 when he won each of his three starts. Each victory was a shut-out.

Mathewson left the Giants and shortly afterward managed the Cincinnati Reds.

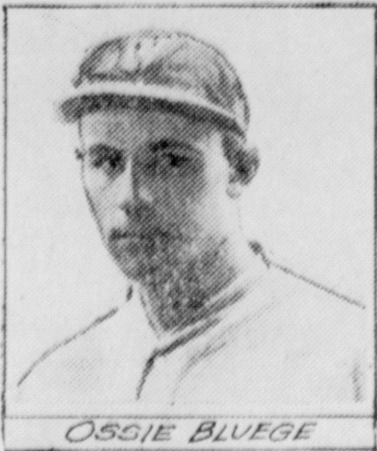

He entered the army when the United States declared war and was made a captain in the gas service. It was then he contracted the malady which brought his death.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 8.—Baseball fans at today's game will pause in silent tribute to Christy Mathewson, baseball's "Big Six," who died last night at Saranac Lake.

WALKER WON'T GIVE SHADE RETURN BOUT

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 8.—"You go and bet all the real estate in Florida that it will take Dave Shade just as long to get another fight with Mickey Walker as it did to get the first one—if he ever does get another one," an intimate friend of Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, said a few days ago.

It took Shade two years to get into the ring with Walker and required the maximum of official pressure from the New York Boxing Commission to defend his welterweight title against the California challenger and it does not require information from such a reliable source to predict that Shade never will get a return bout.

Walker is too careful and his manager is too shrewd to take another chance with Shade after the narrow escape they had from losing the only valuable title now on the market.

Walker made a whirlwind finish in that fight and many good judges, such as William Muldoon, veteran boxing commissioner, thought that Shade won. Shade's failure to win the championship was due primarily to the decision of the referee and one of the judges that Walker had won, but some smart boxing men blame Leo Flynn, Shade's manager, for allowing Walker to take the fight away from Shade in the fifteenth round.

Several reliable fans, who were sitting in the front row near Shade's corner, said they heard Flynn tell Shade before the bell for the fifteenth round to go out and play safe and take no chances.

"You've got the decision in the bag now," Flynn was reported to have said. "Don't take any chances now."

Shade played safe and took no chances from all appearances, and Walker came out with a desperate last-minute attack, so furious that it must have blotted out the recollection of the earlier rounds in the minds of the two officials, although one of the judges voted for Shade.

The arguments about the decision got no place, however, unless those who thought or wrote that Shade was entitled to the decision get some satisfaction out of the discussion to vindicate their own judgment.

The writer picked Walker to win before the fight and yet he thought that Shade won the fight by a score of at least ten to five, if points can be scored that way.

WORLD'S SERIES STANDING
Team—	W.	L.	Pct.
Senators	1	0	1.000
Pirates	0	1	.000

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 8.—With the first game tied up and tucked away in the bag, the Washington Senators, world's champions of 1924, had a tremendous advantage when they went into the second game of the world's series against the Pittsburgh Pirates here today.

The moral advantage that the American League champions gained in downing Bill McKechnie's National League club in the first and most important game was even more than the mathematical points derived.

The first victory not only inspired the veterans but it gave them a margin for Bucky Harris to work on.

Harris can gamble now with his pitchers and he will gamble, every baseball man knows, as there is no manager in the game who is as willing to take the chances.

Stanley Coveleskie, the veteran Pole spitballer, was scheduled to pitch the second game today for the Senators. Harris said that he was in shape to start and that "Big" Firpo" Marberry, the best relief pitcher in baseball, would be ready to jump in if anything happened to Coveleskie.

The Pole has been worked hard all season and his back has been bothering him but he said today that he was ready to go and anxious to get the call.

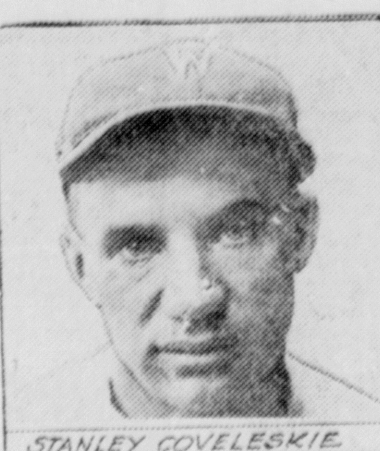

Vic Aldridge, the former Chicago star, was booked to work for the Pirates. He warmed up for a few minutes before yesterday's game and Bill McKechnie, manager of the Pirates, apparently saw that he was in good shape. Johnny Morrison and Tom Sheehan will be held in reserve and Ray Kremer or Emil Yde will get the call in Washington tomorrow with Dutch Reuther working for the Senators.

There was nothing in the opening game but Walter Johnson. "When the 'big train' is right you might just as well sit down and count them as he knocks them off," veteran baseball men agreed.

The Pirates could not hit Johnson, when hits meant something and the Senators hit Lee Meadows just enough to win the ball game. Some smart baseball men blamed Meadows for his own defeat because he did not work on Sam Rice. He had two strikes and a ball on Rice in the fifth inning when he threw him a fast ball. Rice connected with the end of his bat and knocked in two runs that cinched the game.

Meadows pitched a good game and the Pirates blamed their defeat on bad luck. They said that all the Washington hits were off the handles of their bats.

Johnson looked so good and worked so easily that he can be used in at least one more game of the series and perhaps two if necessary.

Everyone expected that the Pirates would suffer from nerves in the opening game but the Senators seemed even more unsteady. Peck, the old reliable shortstop of the Washington club went to the extreme of making a wild throw for the only error of the game and the whole club was wobbly at the start.

The vaunted running attack of the Pirates was stopped almost cold and it was Bluege, the Washington third baseman, who did the only real base-running of the game.

The Pirates did steal two bases but they did not mean anything. Although Muddy Ruel, the young Washington catcher, was doing anything but good throwing, the Pirates did not get a chance to take any real advantage of it.

Heavy skies early today made the prospects look ideal for Coveleskie, who relies entirely upon a spitball. There was just enough moisture in the atmosphere to make conditions about perfect for a spitball pitcher.

BALLS AND STRIKES

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 8.—Opinion was divided as to the best play of the opening game of the world's series and Chick Fraser, the veteran Pittsburgh scout, had an opinion that differed from all the others. A keen observer of baseball, Fraser offered the following to the United Press:

"The best ball player in the field Wednesday was Pie Traynor of the Pirates. I am not speaking of his home run into the right field bleachers. I think the hardest chance accepted in the opening game was when Traynor came in on Peckinpaugh's slow grounder in the seventh inning.

"Pie had to grab the ball on the run with no chance to judge his distance or get set and he had to peg the ball to Grantham on first without an opportunity to size up the play. "In my opinion it was the best effort of the game."

Precedent favors Washington to win the world series as a result of their victory in the first game. In 15 of the 21 series that have been played since 1903 the first victor was the leader at the finish. However, the Senators themselves proved an exception last year and may be victims of the same upset in 1925.

"Walter Johnson pitched a wonderful game but the best hurling was done by Meadows in the fifth inning when he fanned two men with the bases full," declared Fred Clarke, assistant manager of the Pirates.

Kid Gleason, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, said "the Senators now are a cinch to win the series." He believes Dutch Reuther will prove to be the greatest pitcher of the succeeding games.

The sale was made possible by the donations received from 13 Red River Valley counties. The mortgage will be burned at a banquet tonight.

It was colder and there was more and thicker clouds to combat the efforts of the sun, which had performed in record fashion yesterday.

"BIG SIX" GAME OF LIFE IS CALLED TODAY

CHRISTY MATHEWSON IDOL OF BASEBALL FANS, PASSED AWAY

LOSES HIS SEVEN YEAR FIGHT
AGAINST THE WHITE
PLAGUE

DEATH OF THE "BIG SIX" WAS UNEXPECTED, HAD BEEN
ILL ALL SUMMER

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Oct. 8.—(UP)—Christy Mathewson, idol of baseball fans the world over has lost his seven year fight against the white plague.

He died at 11 o'clock last night at his home here just a few hours after the world series had opened in Pittsburgh.

Death of the Big Six was unexpected, although he had been in poor health all summer. Tubercular pneumonia brought on the end.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning in Lewiston, Pa., according to tentative plans. The body will be taken from here tonight.

Mathewson's gallant battle with tuberculosis had held public sympathy ever since he contracted the malady while serving as a captain in the army gas service during the world war. The disease developed slowly, and it was not until 1920 that he was forced to retire as coach of the New York Giants the club with which he won fame as a pitcher.

For three years he remained secluded at this resort and it was believed he had recovered his health. He returned to baseball as president and part owner of the Boston Braves in 1923.

On the training trip south last spring Mathewson suffered a cold, forcing his return here. Throughout the summer rumors reached his friends that he would be able to combat his disease for only a few months longer, but these were denied by his family and physicians.

Mrs. Mathewson was the only person at the bedside when he died. A son, Christopher, Jr., was away at college.

Mathewson's 45 years were devoted to sport. As a youngster at Factoryville, Pa., where he was born August 12, 1880, he was a leader on diamond and gridiron. When the scene shifted to Keystone Academy and Bucknell University he continued to star as a baseball and football player. In 1900 the big pitcher joined the Giants, but was farmed to the Virginia league for experience. At the end of the season he was drafted by the Cincinnati Reds and later went back to the Giants in a trade for the veteran Amos Rusie.

His first year as a major league hurler found him winning 20 games and losing 16. His successes continued with each passing season. Only twice in 15 years did he fail to win at least half his games.

The banner years of his career were 1908 when he won 37 games and lost 11 for a percentage of .771, and 1909 when he won 25 and lost 6 for a percentage of .806.

The "Big Six" won 30 games in three successive seasons, 1903-1905, an astounding record. He pitched two no-hit games and is believed to have made a world's record when in a game with Philadelphia he pitched only 67 balls, less than eight balls an inning.

Control was the secret of Mathewson's mound success. In the 692 games he pitched in the National league, he yielded only a trifle more than an average of one base on balls a game.

He appeared in four world's series, winning five games, losing the same number and tying one. His most sensational post season work was done in the New York-Philadelphia series in 1904 when he won each of his three starts. Each victory was a shut-out.

Mathewson left the Giants and shortly afterward managed the Cincinnati Reds.

HIGH SCHOOL REPORTS MORE

Enrollment Increases 36 Pupils, 536
Now as Against 500 of Last Year

There are 47 less pupils in the entire Brainerd school system at the close of the first month of school this year than there were last year at the same time, according to the monthly report of Superintendent W. C. Cobb's report for September as submitted to the board of education at its meeting on Monday night. There are now 2,024 pupils enrolled in the local schools as compared with 2,071 pupils enrolled at the same time last year.

In the high school department, however, the enrollment has increased since last year by 36 pupils, there being 536 at the present time as against 500 a year ago. As the number of teachers in the high school this year is the same as last, this means that the classes are for the most part very full, and the assembly room and halls as well as recitation rooms are pretty well occupied.

In the grades there are 83 pupils less now than at the end of the first month last year, the decrease being noticeable at the Lowell, Harrison, and Washington-Lincoln districts. The total grade enrollment at present is 1,488, distributed throughout the various buildings as follows: Lowell, 426; Lincoln, 343; Harrison, 334; Whittier, 217; Washington, eighth grade only, 54; Riverside, 63; Garfield, 51.

The average number of pupils per teacher in the several buildings at present is: Lincoln, 34; Harrison, 33; Lowell, 32; Whittier, 31. This indicates a fairly even distribution of pupils per teacher in the larger grade schools, says Supt. Cobb in his report.

Thirteen new grade teachers have been employed to fill vacancies in the grades and six high school teachers for a similar purpose in the high school, at salaries about $5 per teacher less than their predecessors.

The employment of a teacher at large, which was tried as an experiment last year and continued this year, is proving a highly satisfactory arrangement. The relief afforded to the principals in the several large schools enables the principal to give a portion of her time each day to general supervisory work and clerical detail.

The new grade room fitted up at the Lincoln school has made it possible to assign one additional room at the Washington building for high school purposes and the wisdom of fixing up the room at the Lincoln seems to be fully justified. The high school would have been seriously embarrassed this year had this not been done.

The improvements that have been made at the several school buildings during the past summer, in both buildings and grounds, appear to be very satisfactory and much appreciated by the teaching force, continues the superintendent's report.

During the month of October two state teachers meetings will be held at St. Cloud and Minneapolis, respectively. It is the superintendent's intention to have one group of teachers attend the St. Cloud meeting and another group attend the Minneapolis gathering, following the same plan adopted last year. The schools will only be closed in the rooms where the teachers attend the meeting, which will probably include one-fourth of the rooms in the school system.

Attention was called to the matter of closing the schools on the afternoon of October 14th, when the St. Louis Browns play the Brainerd baseball team. A large number of citizens are intensely interested in this game, and it is safe to assume that a large number of pupils in both grades and high school will wish to attend also, says the report, which recommended that the time lost on that afternoon be made up by starting earlier at each session on the day preceding the game, and shortening the recess periods.

The report recommended that since the high school has always had great difficulty in finding a suitable place to hold its baseball and football games, the board secure the Athletic park for such sports at a reasonable rental.

The superintendent recommended that the members of the board visit the high school department while it is in session, to see for themselves the numbers that have to be accommodated within the space available, and also suggested that the board members make an effort to be present at meetings of the parent-teachers associations, as these meetings furnish an excellent opportunity to get into personal contact with teachers as well as parents in the several wards of the city.

Instruction in Crosby

6 OTHER CHAPTERS PRESENT

Deputy Grand Matron Mrs. Jessie
Reynolds, sided

About fifty members of Alpha Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, of Brainerd, attended the annual school of instruction for the Brainerd district, which was held on Tuesday afternoon and evening at the Crosby armory.

Other chapters represented included those of Verndale, Staples, Pine River, Aitkin, Hill City and Isle. The school was in charge of Mrs. Jessie Reynolds, deputy grand matron of this district, who is also matron of the Staples chapter. Maude J. White, of Minneapolis, grand matron of the state of Minnesota, was the guest of honor.

The various parts of a meeting were exemplified by different chapters, the grand matron offering criticisms and suggestions following each part.

The officers of Alpha Chapter exemplified the opening of a chapter. The examination of visitors was exemplified by Orchid chapter, Staples; balloting was done by Woodland chapter, Aitkin; Verndale chapter exemplified the initiatory degrees, and the closing ceremonies were put on by Evergreen chapter, of Crosby-Ironton.

A delicious banquet was served in the armory at 6 o'clock, in charge of the ladies of the Presbyterian church, and the Crosby-Ironton chapter served light refreshments at the close of the school in the evening.

The grand matron made a very pleasing address, in which she complimented the various chapters upon the work they had done at the school of instruction, and made some valuable recommendations for furthering the cause of the order in this district. She told of the accomplishments of other chapters in the state and the progress being made with the building of the Masonic home.

After the school had closed the Crosby-Ironton chapter presented a very pleasing program, which was followed by dancing. The high school orchestra of the Crosby-Ironton schools, under the direction of Beth Evans Yarle, supervisor of music, rendered several selections during the program, and later played for the dancing. The orchestra plays both classical and popular music with equal ability, and received numerous well deserved encores. Much credit is due the players and their director for the accomplished manner in which they play. Miss Yarle also favored with several beautiful vocal solos.

MODERN experiments in nutrition have proven beyond shadow of doubt that milk, which contains "Vitamin," is a necessity to the growth of children and the good health of everyone. Vitamin is only obtainable in appreciable quantities in milk, butter, cheese and eggs.

In sections of the country where dairy products are scarce, children have rickets, tuberculosis and other skeletal diseases in great numbers and those that avoid such diseases are stunted in growth and delicate.

Give your children milk—lots of it. Every child should have a pint of milk a day—a quart is better.

CHAPTER VIII (Continued)

After they had sawed for a while Jerry cried. "Hey! She's runnin' out again." He accompanied this remark by an abrupt cessation of effort. As a result the saw stopped in its downward course and Tom's chin came into violent contact with the upper handle.

The man above uttered a cry of pain and fury; he clapped a hand to his face as if to catch and save his teeth.

Jerry giggled with a shameless lack of feeling. "Spit 'em out," he cackled. "They ain't no more good to you than a handful of popcorn." He was not really amused at his partner's mishap; on the contrary, he was more than a little concerned by it, but fatigue had rendered him absurdly hysterical, and the constant friction of mental, spiritual, and physical contact with Tom had fretted his soul as that sawdust inside his clothes had fretted his body. "He, he! Ho, ho!" he chorled. "You don't shove. Oh no! All the same, whenever I stop pullin' you butt your brains out."

"I didn't shove!" The ferocity of this denial was modified and muffled by reason of the fact that a greater part of the speaker's hand was inside his mouth and his fingers were taking stock of its contents.

"All right, you didn't shove. Have it your own way. I said she was runnin' out again. We ain't cuttin' wedges, we're cuttin' boat-seats."

"Well, why don't you pull straight? I can't follow a line with you skinning the cat on your end?"

"My fault again, eh?" Mr. Quirk showed the whites of his eyes and his face grew purple. Lemme tell you something, Tom. I've studied you careful, as man and boy, for a matter of thirty years, but I never seen you in all your hideousness till this trip. I got you now, though; I got you all added up and subtracted and I'll tell you the answer. It's my opinion, backed by fingers, that you're a dam—" He hesitated, then with a herculean effort he managed to gulp the remainder of his sentence. In a changed voice he said: "Oh, what's the use? I s'pose you've got feelin's. Come on, let's get through."

Linton peered down over the edge of the log. "It's your opinion I'm a what?" he inquired, with vicious calmness.

"Nothing. It's no use to tell you. Now then, lift, bite, leg— Why don't you lift?"

"I am nothing. Leggo your end!" Mr. Linton tugged violently, but the saw came up slowly. It rose and fell several times, gut with the same feeling of dead weight attached to it. Tom wiped the sweat out of his eyes and once again in a stormy voice he addressed his partner: "If you don't get off them handles I'll take a stick and knock you off. What you grinnin' at?"

"Why, she's stuck, that's all. Drive your wedge—" Jerry's words ended in an agonizing yelp; he began to paw blindly. "You did that a-purpose."

"Did I what?"

"Kicked sawdust in my eyes. I saw you!"

Mr. Linton's voice, when he spoke, held that same sinister note of restrained ferocity which had characterized it heretofore. "When I start kicking I won't kick sawdust into your eyes! I'll kick your eyes into that sawdust. That's what I'll do. I'll stomp 'em out like a pair of grapes."

"You try it! You try anything with me!" Jerry chattered, in a simian frenzy. "You've got a bad reputation at home; you're a male hombre—a side-winder, you are, and your bite is certain death. That's what they say. Well, ever see a Mexican hog eat a rattler? That's me—wild hog!"

"Wild hog? What's wild about you?" sneered the other. "You picked the right animal but the wrong variety. Any kind of a hog makes a bad partner."

For a time the work proceeded in silence, then the latter speaker resumed: "You said I was a dam! something or other. What was it?" The object of this inquiry maintained, nay an insulting silence. "A what?" Linton persisted.

Quirk looked up through his mask of sawdust. "If you're gettin' tired again why don't you say so? I'll wait while you rest." He opened his eyes in apparent astonishment, then he cried: "Hello! Why, it's raining!"

"It ain't raining," Tom declared. "Must be—your face is wet." Once more the speaker cackled shrilly in a manner intended to be mirthful, but which was in reality insulting beyond human endurance. "I never saw moisture on your brow, Tom, except when it rained or when you set too close to a fire."

"What was it you wanted to call me and was scared to?" Mr. Linton urged, venomously. "A dam! what?"

"Oh, I forgot the precise epithet I had in mind. But a new one rises to my lips 'most every minute. I think I aimed to call you a dam! old fool. Something like that."

Slowly, carefully, Mr. Linton descended from the scaffold, leaving the whip-saw in its place. He was shaking with rage, with weakness, and with fatigue.

"Old? Me old? I'm a fool, I admit, or I wouldn't have lugged your loads and done your work the way I have. But, you see, I'm strong and vigorous and I feel sorry for a tottering wreck like you—"

"Lugged my loads?" snorted the smaller man. "Me a wreck? My Gawd!"

"I did your packing and your washing and your cooking, and mine, too, just because you was feeble and because I've got consideration for my seniors. I was raised that way. I honored your age, Jerry. I know you was about all in, but I never called you old, I wouldn't hurt your feelings. What did you do? You set around on your bony hips and criticized and picked at me. But you've picked my last feather off and I'm plumb raw. Right here we split!"

Jerry quirk staggered slightly and leaned against a post for support. His knees were wobbly; he, too, ached in every bone and muscle; he, too, had been goaded into an insane temper, but that which maddened him beyond expression was this unwarranted charge of incompetency.

"Split it is," he agreed. "That'll take a load off my shoulders."

"We'll cut our grub fifty-fifty, then I'll hit you a clout with the traces and turn you a-loose."

Jerry was still dazed, for his world had come to an end, but he pretended to an extravagant joy and managed to chirp: "Good news—the first I've had since we went partin'."

"I'll sure kick up my heels. What'll we do with the boat?"

"Cut her in two."

"Right. We'll toss up for ends. We'll divide everything the same way, down to the skillet."

"Every blame' thing," Linton agreed.

Side by side they set off heavily through the woods.

Quarrels similar to this were of daily occurrence on the trail, but especially common were they here at Linton, for of all the devices of the devil the one most trying to human patience is a whip-saw. It is a saying in the North that to know a man one must eat at a sack of flour with him; it is also generally recognized that a partnership which survives the vexations of a saw-pit is time and weather-proof—a predestined union more sacred and more perfect even than that of matrimony. Few indeed have stood the test.

It was in this loosening of sentimental ties, in the breach of friendships and the birth of bitter enmities, where lay the deepest tragedy of the Chilkoote and the Chilkat trails. Under ordinary, normal circumstances men of opposite temperaments may live with each other in harmony and died in mutual accord, but circumstances here were extraordinary, abnormal. Hardship, monotony, fatigue score the very ugly, constant close association renders men absurdly petulant and childishly quarrelsome. Many are the heartaches charged against those early days and early trails.

PIRATES DEFEAT SENATORS 3 TO 2

second, Peck to Harris on a very fast play. No runs, two hits, no errors.

There was a "leak" in the bleacher barrier and all through the early innings fans kept clambering precariously in one by one.

FOURTH INNING

Washington—Goslin out, Wright to Grantham, Grantham making a beautiful catch at first. Judge fled to Barnhart who ran clear back to the wall for the catch. J. Harris hit over Traynor's head on a hard line drive. It was his second hit of the game. It was a single. Bluege fled to Cuyler what ran far back to the fence for the catch. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Judge Landis gripped the railing of his box and leaned forward to miss no detail of the play as though it were his first game.

Pittsburgh—Barnhart fled to Rice in short center field. Traynor out, Peck to Judge on a high bouncer. Wright hit a home run into the left field stands. Goslin made a tremendous leap to knock down the ball but it cleared his head into the stands.

The score was tied. Grantham fouled to Ruel, who leaped over into the stands to make the catch. One run, one hit, no errors.

The women spectators in the boxes and stands were glad of their fur pieces by this time as it kept getting chillier every inning.

FIFTH INNING

Washington—Peck singled to left on a drive in front of Barnhart. Ruel singled to left center, Peck stopping at second. The Pittsburgh players gathered around Aldridge for a conference. Coveleskie bunted to Aldridge who made the play at third base but Peck beat the throw and the bases were filled. It was a sacrifice hit for Coveleskie and a fielder's choice. Rice forced Peck at the plate, Aldridge to Smith, Aldridge almost making a wild throw. S. Harris up. Harris forced Ruel at the plate, Wright to Smith, Goslin out, Grantham unassisted. No runs, two hits, no errors.

The fans got their fill of world's series thrills in this inning and were kept in a fever of excitement. Washington rooters used their megaphones while the local fans howled with delight when the side was retired.

Pittsburgh—Smith out on strikes. Aldridge out, Peck to Judge on an easy chance. Moore out, Peck to Judge on a high bouncer. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Coveleskie continued to work easily and retired the side with no trouble. It was getting dark and his spitter was breaking fine.

SIXTH INNING

Washington—Judge fled to Carey who ran back for the catch. J. Harris fled to Carey who made the catch back of second. Bluege was hit by a pitched ball. The ball hit him on the head behind the ear and knocked him unconscious. The umpires and the players all gathered around him and the Washington doctors dashed out from the bench. His head was bathed with water but he remained motionless on the ground. Aldridge was visibly upset by the accident and walked over to the Pittsburgh bench. Bluege was revived sufficiently to sit up near the plate but he was still holding his head. Bucky Harris asked him if he felt well enough to continue in the game and he said he did but the doctors objected. Bluege was taken off the field by the doctors and led to the club house and Buddy Myers, a rookie, ran for him. Peck up. Myers died stealing, Smith to Moore on a hit and run play. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Myers went to third base for Washington. Carey beat out a bunt to Coveleskie. Cuyler sacrificed, Covey to J. Harris who covered first, Carey stopping at second. Barnhart out, Peck to Judge. Judge had to jump high in the air for the catch and Carey went to third. Traynor walked. Wright forced Traynor at second, Peck to S. Harris. No runs, one hit, no errors.

The doctors who examined Bluege in the club house announced he was not badly hurt but merely dazed and able to sit up. An X-ray will be taken.

SEVENTH INNING

Washington—Peck out, Wright to Grantham on a spectacular stop by Wright. Ruel fled to Barnhart who made the catch against the wall. Coveleskie out, Traynor to Grantham. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Big Marberry, the Washington relief twirler, went out to the bull pen as he did yesterday. This was purely a precautionary measure, however, as Coveleskie still had control of his spitter.

Pittsburgh—Grantham out, S. Harris to Judge. Smith out, Judge unassisted. Aldridge popped to Peck. No runs, no hits, no errors.

The air was filled with shouts, cries, papers and streamers as the fans tried to cheer in a Pittsburgh rally but Covey ended the inning quickly.

EIGHTH INNING

Washington—Rice singled through Aldridge. S. Harris sacrificed, Grantham to Moore, Rice pulling up at second. Goslin out, Aldridge to Grantham. Rice went to third on the play. Judge popped to Moore who made the catch in deep right field. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Moore beat out a hit to Peck. It was a bad bounding ball, but Peck booted it and was charged with an error. Carey out, S. Harris to Judge, Moore stopping at second. Cuyler hit a home run into the right field stands, scoring Moore ahead of him. The drive went over Harris' head and bounced into the crowd. Barnhart singled past Peck. Traynor hit to Peck who fumbled trying for a double play. Two runners were safe. It was another error for Peck. Wright popped to Myer. Grantham fouled to Ruel. Two runs, two hits, two errors.

NINTH INNING

Washington—J. Harris walked. McNeely ran for J. Harris. Myer singled past Traynor, McNeely stopping at second. Peck walked, killing the bases. Babe Adams warmed up in the bull pen. Veach batted for Ruel. Veach fled to Carey, McNeely scoring after the catch, Myer and Peck holding their bases. Reuther batted for Coveleskie. Reuther fanned. Rice out, Moore to Grantham. One run, one hit, no errors.

Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 8.—Trailing by one game, the Pittsburgh Pirates lined up against the Washington Senators in the world series here this afternoon, with blood in their eyes and clamoring for revenge.

After being flopped in the opening game yesterday, the National league champions were in a critical condition. They had to win today's game or assume a handicap that would be almost too heavy for any ball club to carry.

Weather conditions were almost perfect for baseball.

The Pirates did not show any signs of dejection when they came on the field. They were given a nice hand but it was not an ovation.

There was hardly a murmur from the stands when the Senators came out of the dugout and strolled across the field.

Stanley Coveleskie, the veteran spitball pitcher, who was expected to pitch for the Senators, was the last one in line.

He has been disabled with a lame back and he did not show much pep when he went out to throw a few balls to Tate, one of the young Washington catchers.

Lee Meadows probably will be prevented from starting another game in the series as a result of a sore arm which he brought out of the first contest. "I pitched too many during yesterday and am afraid

Miss Marion Brown, perhaps, if you are a radio fan, you've had the pleasure of hearing her sing. She has broadcast through station CYK, Winnipeg, and owing to her vocal my arm is on the shelf for a while," he stated this afternoon.

Five minutes before game time, Coveleskie went out to warm up in front of the Washington bench and Aldridge loosened up his arm for the Pirates.

The park was filled to the last seat as Nick Altrock and Al Shacht put on a clown act back of the plate. The umpires came out and called Max Carey, captain of the Pirates, and Bucky Harris, manager of the Washington club to the plate. The groundkeepers crossed up the infield and the decks were cleared for action.

Just before the game time the players of the two clubs behind a band marched to the center of the field flag pole where the colors were raised and brought back to half mast as a tribute to the memory of the late Christy Mathewson. The players of the two clubs had mourning bands on the left sleeve of their uniforms. The big crowd stood uncovered for a minute to pay its respects.

The band played the national anthem and "Nearer My God to Thee" and the players filed back to the dug-out.

Coveleskie and Aldridge meanwhile, continued to warm up.

Fred Clark, the assistant manager of the Pirates, stood at the elbow of Aldridge and talked to him very seriously. Walter Johnson, who won the first game of the series yesterday, held counsel with Coveleskie in front of the Washington dugout.

The field was cleared again and the players got ready to start.

The Pittsburgh club dashed to the field and Sam Rice came from the dugout swinging a single bat.

CHAPTER VIII (Continued)

After they had sawed for a while Jerry cried, "Hey!" She's running out again." He accompanied this remark by an abrupt cessation of effort. As a result the saw stopped in its downward course and Tom's chin came into violent contact with the upper handle.

The man above uttered a cry of pain and fury; he clapped a hand to his face as if to catch and save his teeth.

Jerry giggled with a shameless lack of feeling. "Spit 'em out," he cackled. "They ain't no more good to you than a handful of popcorn." He was not really amused at his partner's mishap; on the contrary, he was more than a little concerned by it, but fatigue had rendered him absurdly hysterical, and the constant friction of mental, spiritual, and physical contact with Tom had fretted his soul as that sawdust inside his clothes had fretted his body. "He, he! Ho, ho!" he chortled. "You don't shove. Oh no! All the same, whenever I stop pullin' you butt your brains out."

"I didn't shove!" The ferocity of this denial was modified and muffled by reason of the fact that a greater part of the speaker's hand was inside his mouth and his fingers were taking stock of its contents.

"All right, you didn't shove. Have it your own way. I said she was running out again. We ain't cuttin' wedges, we're cuttin' boat-seats."

"Well, why don't you pull straight? I can't follow a line with you skinning the cat on your end?"

"My fault again, eh?" Mr. Quirk showed the whites of his eyes and his face grew purple. Lemme tell you something, Tom. I've studied you careful, as man and boy, for a matter of thirty years, but I never seen you in all your hideousness till this trip. I got you now, though; I got you all added up and subtracted and I'll tell you the answer. It's my opinion, backed by figgers, that you're a dam—" He hesitated, then with a herculean effort he managed to gulp the remainder of his sentence. In a changed voice he said: "Oh, what's the use? I s'pose you've got feelin's. Come on, let's get through."

Linton peered down over the edge of the log. "It's your opinion I'm a what?" he inquired, with vicious calmness.

"Nothing. It's no use to tell you. Now then, lift, bite, leg— Why don't you lift?"

"I am nothing. Leggo your end!" Mr. Linton tugged violently, but the saw came up slowly. It rose and fell several times, gut with the same feeling of dead weight attached to it. Tom wiped the sweat out of his eyes and once again in a stony voice he addressed his partner: "If you don't get off them handles I'll take a stick and knock you off. What you grinnin' at?"

"Why, she's stuck, that's all. Drive your wedge—" Jerry's words ended in an agonizing yelp; he began to paw blindly. "You did that a-purpose."

"Did what?"

"Kicked sawdust in my eyes. I saw you!"

Mr. Linton's voice, when he spoke, held that same sinister note of restrained ferocity which had characterized it heretofore. "When I start kicking I won't kick sawdust into your eyes! I'll kick your eyes into that sawdust. That's what I'll do. I'll stomp 'em out like a pair of grapes."

"You try it! You try anything with me," Jerry chattered, in a simian frenzy. "You've got a bad reputation at home; you're a malo hombre—a side-winder, you are, and your bite is certain death. That's what they say. Well, ever see a Mexican hog eat a rattler? That's me—wild hog!"

"Wild hog? What's wild about you?" sneered the other. "You picked the right animal but the wrong variety. Any kind of a hog makes a bad partner."

For a time the work proceeded in silence, then the latter speaker resumed: "You said I was a dam! something or other. What was it?" The object of this inquiry maintained a hay an insulting silence. "A what?" Linton persisted.

Quirk looked up through his mask of sawdust. "If you're gettin' tired again why don't you say so? I'll wait while you rest." He opened his eyes in apparent astonishment, then he cried: "Hello! Why, it's raining!"

"It ain't raining," Tom declared. "Must be—your face is wet." Once more the speaker cackled shrilly in a manner intended to be mirthful, but which was in reality insulting beyond human endurance. "I never saw moisture on your brow, Tom, except when it rained or when you set too close to a fire."

"What was it you wanted to call me and was scared to?" Mr. Linton urged, venomously. "A dam! what?" "Oh, I forgot the precise epithet I had in mind. But a new one rises to my lips 'most every minute. I think I aimed to call you a dam! old fool. Something like that."

Slowly, carefully, Mr. Linton descended from the scaffold, leaving the whip-saw in its place. He was shaking with rage, with weakness, and with fatigue.

"Old? Me old? I'm a fool, I admit, or I wouldn't have lugged your loads and done your work the way I have. But, you see, I'm strong and vigorous and I felt sorry for a tottering wreck like you—"

"Lugged my loads?" snorted the smaller man. "Me a wreck? My Gawd!"

"I did your packing and your washing and your cooking, and mine, too, just because you was feeble and because I've got consideration for my seniors. I was raised that way. I honored your age, Jerry. I knew you was about all in, but I never called you old. I wouldn't hurt your feelings. What did you do? You set around on your bony hips and criticized and picked at me. But you've picked my last feather off and I'm plumb raw. Right here we split!"

Jerry Quirk staggered slightly and leaned against a post for support. His knees were wobbly; he, too, ached in every bone and muscle; he, too, had been goaded into an insane temper, but that which maddened him beyond expression was this unwarranted charge of incompetency. "Split it is," he agreed. "That'll take a load off my shoulders."

"We'll cut our grub fifty-fifty, then I'll hit you a clout with the traces and turn you a-loose."

Jerry was still dazed, for his world had come to an end, but he pretended to an extravagant joy and managed to chirp: "Good news—the first I've had since we went paid-up. I'll sure kick up my heels. What'll we do with the boat?"

"Cut her in two."

"Right. We'll toss up for ends. We'll divide everything the same way, down to the skillet."

"Every blame' thing," Linton agreed.

Side by side they set off heavily through the woods.

Quarrels similar to this were of daily occurrence on the trail, but especially common were they here at Linderman, for of all the devices of the devil the one most trying to human patience is a whip-saw. It is a saying in the North that to know a man one must eat at a sack of flour with him; it is also generally recognized that a partnership which survives the vexations of a saw-pit is time and weather-proof—a predestined union more sacred and more perfect even than that of matrimony. Few indeed have stood the test.

It was in this loosening of sentimental ties, in the breach of friendships and the birth of bitter enmities, where lay the deepest tragedy of the Chilkoot and the Chilkat trails. Under ordinary, normal circumstances men of opposite temperaments may live with each other in harmony and died in mutual accord, but circumstances here were extraordinary, abnormal. Hardship, monotony, fatigue score the very soul; constant close association renders men absurdly petulant and childishly quarrelsome. Many are the heartaches charged against those early days and early trails.

second, Peck to Harris on a very fast play. No runs, two hits, no errors. There was a "leak" in the bleacher barrier and all through the early innings fans kept clamoring precariously in one by one.

FOURTH INNING

Washington—Goslin out, Wright to Grantham, Grantham making a beautiful catch at first. Judge fled to Barnhart who ran clear back to the wall for the catch. J. Harris hit over Traynor's head on a hard line drive. It was his second hit of the game. It was a single. Bluege fled to Cuyler who ran far back to the fence for the catch. No runs, one hit, no errors. Judge Landis gripped the railing of his box and leaned forward to miss no detail of the play as though it were his first game.

Pittsburgh—Barnhart fled to Rice in short center field. Traynor out, Peck to Judge on a high bounder. Wright hit a home run into the left field stands. Goslin made a tremendous leap to knock down the ball but it cleared his head into the stands. The score was tied. Grantham fouled to Ruel, who leaped over into the stands to make the catch. One run, one hit, no errors.

The women spectators in the boxes and stands were glad of their fur pieces by this time as it kept getting chillier every inning.

FIFTH INNING

Washington—Peck singled to left on a drive in front of Barnhart. Ruel singled to left center, Peck stopping at second. The Pittsburgh players gathered around Aldridge for a conference. Coveleskie bunted to Aldridge who made the play at third base but Peck beat the throw and the bases were filled. It was a sacrifice hit for Coveleskie and a fielder's choice. Rice forced Peck at the plate, Aldridge to Smith, Aldridge almost making a wild throw. S. Harris up. Harris forced Ruel at the plate, Wright to Smith, Goslin out, Grantham unassisted. No runs, two hits, no errors.

The fans got their fill of world's series thrills in this inning and were kept in a fever of excitement. Washington rooters used their megaphones while the local fans howled with delight when the side was retired.

Pittsburgh—Smith out on strikes, Aldridge out, Peck to Judge on an easy chance. Moore out, Peck to Judge on a high bounder. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Coveleskie continued to work easily and retired the side with no trouble. It was getting dark and his spitter was breaking fine.

SIXTH INNING

Washington—Judge fled to Carey who ran back for the catch. J. Harris fled to Carey who made the catch back of second. Bluege was hit by a pitched ball. The ball hit him on the head behind the ear and knocked him unconscious. The umpires and the players all gathered around him and the Washington doctors dashed out from the bench. His head was bathed with water but he remained motionless on the ground. Aldridge was visibly upset by the accident and walked over to the Pittsburgh bench. Bluege was revived sufficiently to sit up near the plate but he was still holding his head. Bucky Harris asked him if he felt well enough to continue in the game and he said he did but the doctors objected. Bluege was taken off the field by the doctors and led to the club house and Buddy Myers, a rookie, ran for him. Peck up. Myers died stealing, Smith to Moore on a hit and run play. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Myers went to third base for Washington. Carey beat out a bunt to Coveleskie. Cuyler sacrificed, Covey to J. Harris who covered first, Carey stopping at second. Barnhart out, Peck to Judge. Judge had to jump high in the air for the catch and Carey went to third. Traynor walked. Wright forced Traynor at second, Peck to S. Harris. No runs, one hit, no errors.

The doctors who examined Bluege in the club house announced he was not badly hurt but merely dazed and able to sit up. An X-ray will be taken.

SEVENTH INNING

Washington—Peck out, Wright to Grantham on a spectacular stop by Wright. Ruel fled to Barnhart who made the catch against the wall. Coveleskie out, Traynor to Grantham. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Big Marberry, the Washington relief twirler, went out to the bull pen as he did yesterday. This was purely a precautionary measure, however, as Coveleskie still had control of his spitter.

Pittsburgh—Grantham out, S. Harris to Judge. Smith out, Judge unassisted. Aldridge popped to Peck. No runs, no hits, no errors.

The air was filled with shouts, cries, papers and streamers as the fans tried to cheer in a Pittsburgh rally but Covey ended the inning quickly.

EIGHTH INNING

Washington—Rice singled through Aldridge. S. Harris sacrificed, Grantham to Moore, Rice pulling up at second. Goslin out, Aldridge to Grantham. Rice went to third on the play. Judge popped to Moore who made the catch in deep right field. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Moore beat out a hit to Peck. It was a bad bounding ball, but Peck booted it and was charged with an error. Carey out, S. Harris to Judge, Moore stopping at second. Cuyler hit a home run into the right field stands, scoring Moore ahead of him. The drive went over Harris' head and bounced into the crowd. Barnhart singled past Peck. Traynor hit to Peck who fumbled trying for a double play. Two runners were safe. It was another error for Peck. Wright popped to Myers. Grantham fouled to Ruel. Two runs, two hits, two errors.

NINTH INNING

Washington—J. Harris walked. McNeely ran for J. Harris. Myer singled past Traynor, McNeely stopping at second. Peck walked, filling the bases. Babe Adams warmed up in the bull pen. Veach batted for Ruel. Veach tied to Carey, McNeely scoring after the catch, Myer and Peck holding their bases. Reuther batted for Coveleskie. Reuther fanned. Rice out, Moore to Grantham. One run, one hit, no errors.

Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 8.—Trailing by one game, the Pittsburgh Pirates lined up against the Washington Senators in the world series here this afternoon, with blood in their eyes and clamoring for revenge.

After being flopped in the opening game yesterday, the National league champions were in a critical condition. They had to win today's game or assume a handicap that would be almost too heavy for any ball club to carry.

Weather conditions were almost perfect for baseball.

The Pirates did not show any signs of dejection when they came on the field. They were given a nice hand but it was not an ovation.

There was hardly a murmur from the stands when the Senators came out of the dugout and strolled across the field.

Stanley Coveleskie, the veteran spitball pitcher, who was expected to pitch for the Senators, was the last one in line.

He has been disabled with a lame back and he did not show much pep when he went out to throw a few balls to Tate, one of the young Washington catchers.

Lee Meadows probably will be prevented from starting another game in the series as a result of a sore arm which he brought out of the first contest. "I pitched too many during yesterday and am afraid

Kiddie Has Astounding Voice

Miss Marion Brown, perhaps, if you are a radio fan, you've had the pleasure of hearing her sing. She has broadcast through station CYK, Winnipeg, and owing to her vocal my arm is on the shelf for a while," he stated this afternoon.

Five minutes before game time, Coveleskie went out to warm up in front of the Washington bench and Aldridge loosened up his arm for the Pirates.

The park was filled to the last seat as Nick Albrock and Al Shacht put on a clown act back of the plate. The umpires came out and called Max Carey, captain of the Pirates, and Bucky Harris, manager of the Washington club to the plate. The groundkeepers crossed the infield and the decks were cleared for action.

Just before the game time the players of the two clubs behind a band marched to the center of the field flag pole where the colors were raised and brought back to half mast as a tribute to the memory of the late Christy Mathewson. The players of the two clubs had mourning bands on the left sleeve of their uniforms. The big crowd stood uncovered for a minute to pay its respects.

The band played the national anthem and "Nearer My God to Thee" and the players filed back to the dugout.

Coveleskie and Aldridge meanwhile, continued to warm up.

Fred Clark, the assistant manager of the Pirates, stood at the elbow of Aldridge and talked to him very seriously. Walter Johnson, who won the first game of the series yesterday, held counsel with Coveleskie in front of the Washington dugout.

The field was cleared again and the players got ready to start.

The Pittsburgh club dashed to the field and Sam Rice came from the dugout swinging a single bat.
